

Institut Simone de Beauvoir Institute

Concordia University

WOMEN'S IDENTITY AND IMAGE: RECENT APPROACHES

wmns 291/4

Instructor: Barbara Roberts

Time: Tuesday & Thursday
10:15 - 11:30

Place: Loyola Sec. 01

This course is about women in Canada and the western world today.

After a short historical introduction covering women's changing perceptions since the 1950's, we shall look at what is going on here and now. Topics introduced will include women and the Canadian Charter of Rights, sexuality, women and the Peace movement, violence against women, women and the family, women and the future, and other currently relevant subjects.

There will be opportunities for the exchange of ideas and the exploration of issues of topical importance to women in the Montreal community and in the wider sphere.

Student participation is stressed.

Normally a required course for student members of the Simone de Beauvoir Institute, and compulsory for Women's Studies majors and minors, this course is also suitable for choice as an elective for anyone who wishes to learn more about the condition and achievements of women at the present time.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION PLEASE CALL 848-2370.

